BADGER KNIFE CLUB

Winter 2011

Club Meeting Sunday, January 30 — 7 p.m.

The next meeting of the Badger Knife Club (BKC) will be Sunday, January 30, at 7 p.m. at the Milwaukee County Council, Boy Scouts of America, 330 S. 84 St., Milwaukee, WI, lower level PieperPower Learning Center. (Exit 306 off I-94 at S. 84 St.).

Please use the rear entrance due to possible icy or slippery conditions on the exterior stairway that we normally use.

The Featured Program will be Let's Talk Tactical Knives. Bring along a tactical knife or what you consider a tactical knife and be prepared to defend why you think it is a tactical knife. (It doesn't have to be black!) This should be fun and very enlightening.

The Progressive Attendance prize is at $5.00 after Col. Joe Fox won $5.00 at the last meeting. The regular Attendance Prize of $5.00 went to John Munch.

Special THANK YOU to Mark Erickson, Col. Joe Fox, Gary Glowinski, Keith Jacobs, and Tom Valenti for the great Club Raffle items they donated.

Come and join in the fellowship and have some fun along with the free coffee, juice and donuts. Be sure to bring a tactical knife if you have one (or more) and any other knife for sale or swap or just to show off!

*Multi Purpose Tools **

By Erik Meade

Many construction workers, hunters, fishermen, hikers, mountain climbers, etc. like to carry a multi purpose tool with them in order to be able to deal with the kinds of situations that may arise that require more than a sharp blade. An extreme example illustrates this point. A new film is shortly to be released about a man who was hiking in the canyons of Utah and got into trouble. This film is called 127 Hours and is based on a real life incident. He fell and his right arm was wedged between boulders. After almost five days of being trapped and unable to move, he decided to use his multi purpose tool (the brand name of which he has so far refused to specify) to cut away the lower portion of the arm and eventually extricate himself and survived the ordeal. He made a tourniquet to control the bleeding. He still hikes, climbs mountains and swims. He also leaves behind written instructions of where and when he is going into the wilderness.

Read that last line again, slowly.

Most of us will never have to face that kind of situation, but it never hurts to plan ahead and always carry an accessory to help out in an emergency. I, personally, own two Leatherman models, a Gerber model, two micro tools and several less than satisfactory give away tools that can barely have any real use. I would say that the major difference between a Swiss Army style knife with accessories and a multi purpose tool is that the Swiss Army style is primarily a knife with extra features and the multi purpose tool is primarily a set of pliers with bonus features that include a sharp blade or blades. For example, if you hook a big muskie, you will reach for the multi tool and use the pliers to extract the lure without cutting your fingers on the fish's sharp teeth. Most muskies are released. If it's another species of fish and you intend to clean it and eat it., you could use the built in knife blade of the multi tool, but there are better styles of knife blades out there for filleting a fish.

Multi purpose tools are not a new concept. Many of you have seen or used a Woodsman's Pal, which is a combination machete and brush hook. There have been knives developed over the years that have interchangeable blades such as a small hammer, saw, screw driver, etc. The folding pliers/blade style is just a more practical development and is less subject to loss of accessories.
